BANDITS ROB U. S. MAILS OF LARGE AMOUNT

Hold Up Truck, Put Guards In Cage, Escape With Registered Pouches

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—Six men in an automobile staged a daring holdup of a government mail truck here early today and escaped with nine registered mail pouches, containing large sums of money. Postal authorities cannot estimate the amount taken until a check is made.

The robbery occurred in the downtown district of the city. A chauffeur and guard on the mail truck were locked in the cage of the machine when the bandits commandeered it.

The truck was then driven to the river district, where the nine mail bags were taken from the cage and loaded into the bandits' car.

Authorities announced that the amount taken may run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, as the mail was for distribution among business houses.

Cash and Money Orders
Large amounts of cash and money orders are contained in the mails on the first of the month. A general alarm was sounded for the apprehension of the bandits, who sped away in their machine.

The robbery occurred at 6:20 o'clock this morning, an hour when the river district is practically deserted.

Adrian G. Dorlac, messenger, and Edward M. Cunningham, chauffeur, were in command of the truck. Both were armed with 35 calibre pistols. According to both, the robbers drove up from the rear and covered them before they had a chance to reach for their guns.

Two of the bandits jumped from their machine when the mail truck was brought to a halt according to the two postal employees, and leveled guns at them. One of the robbers carried a revolver in each hand, while the other leveled a sawed-off shotgun at the driver of the truck.

Four of the bandits were seated in their machine, each armed with a sawed-off shotgun. The fifth bandit directed Cunningham to drive towards the river front when within a block of the river commanded the chauffeur to turn into an alley.

Placed in Cage
The bandits assembled and discussed their plans. After unloading the nine pouches, Dorlac and Cunningham were placed in the cage of the truck and locked in. The imprisoned men sat for a while after the bandits had escaped, but they fled to attract any attention for several minutes.

A negro, living in the district, heard their cries and ran to the scene. It was discovered that the bandits had failed to open the lock on the truck. The truck was driven to the police station where the robbery was reported.

Judge Lovett Males Attack on Rail Plan

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—The plan of Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, to consolidate all railroads west of Chicago, and the Mississippi river into a system, recently proposed before the interstate commerce commission, was attacked by Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the Union Pacific system, at a hearing before Commissioners H. H. and Campbell today on the consolidation plan.

Such a consolidation, Judge Lovett declared, would create an "unnatural alliance" and would greatly strengthen the so-called "Big Four" of railroads, at the same time greatly weakening the so-called "Harriman group."

Eighteen Hurt When Street Car Users

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Eighteen persons were injured today when a Market Street Railway company street car overturned at Bryant and Eleventh streets.

RAIN PROVES OF BENEFIT TO STATES

Moisture Is Worth Many Millions of Dollars to All of California

Justifying the popular declaration that "April showers bring May flowers," April, 1923, was ushered in on Easter day with showers that added .50 of an inch to the seasonal record, which now stands at 10.08 inches.

While dampening many Easter plans and bonnets the rain was welcome to freshen things up a bit and additional showers are hoped for.

The record for the present year is still short of that for last year, when 26.19 inches was recorded for the season a year ago today.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bartlett of 333 West Broadway, who have a rain gauge and keep rain records, state that the present year is the driest since they started keeping rain records in 1909.

Big Benefit to State
SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Livestock and poultry raisers and dairymen were rejoicing today over what is estimated to be a $100,000,000 rain which fell over the week-end.

The rainfall which started Saturday, continued throughout Sunday intermittently and indications today were that before the storm passes, considerable additional precipitation will occur.

It brought to an end the longest spring dry spell in many years. The generous rainfall throughout the Sacramento valley was estimated to be worth $20,000,000 to the farmers while from Tulare came the estimate of at least $2,500,000 advantage in that section.

Comes to Revive Crops

Unirrigated orchards, grain lands and grass bottoms were suffering severely from the drought, but reports from all over the northern part of the state indicated the rain came in time to revive the endangered crops.

The Sacramento valley received the most generous rainfall, about an inch being reported there. In lesser amounts the rain fell clear to San Diego, which reported .02 of an inch.

Sonoma county reported vast value from the rain, pasture having suffered badly from the drought. Hayward and San Leandro reported the pea crop would be greatly benefited.

Krupp Plants Resume Work Following Riot

ESSEN, April 2.—Work was resumed at the Krupp works as usual today, despite the outbreak on Saturday when eleven workers were killed and nearly two score were wounded by French soldiers who had occupied the motor car garage of the factory. No violence developed over the week-end.

The works will be closed down during the funeral of the men who were killed.

Four directors of the Krupp plant were arrested after formal protest had been made by the Krupp directorate against the snootings.

French sentries are still patrolling the ground around the plant.

Turk Capital Menaced By Fire in Stamboul

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 2.—Fire, which threatened for a time to wipe out the entire city of Constantinople, burned part of the Stamboul section today.

McDonald, was forced to alight shortly after taking off because of engine trouble. The outfit spent Sunday in Savannah.

CONDEMNS INVASION

LONDON, April 2.—A resolution condemning French invasion of the Ruhr was moved in the independent labor conference today by P. J. Deland of Glasgow. The resolution referred to the seizure of the Ruhr as "militaristic aggression against a defenseless people, which is a blow to international peace and reconstruction of Europe."

Why Is It Impossible To Gather Figs From Thistles? U.S. Army Wants To Know

By HARRY L. ROGERS
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The United States army has gone to Thomas A. Edison one better by compiling a list of 115 questions to be answered by all persons attending the country's military training camps this summer.

This "questionnaire" is part of an official training manual called "Studies in citizenship," made public at the war department today. The manual contains an introduction by General Pershing upon the vagueness of the average soldier's ideas concerning citizenship and urging the importance of these studies, which he says, are being issued to all officers of all components of the army, with the suggestion that much can be accomplished toward making "the nation impregnable by encouraging educational institutions to strengthen and clarify their instruction of subjects such as these."

Here are a few of the questions:

"Why is it impossible to gather figs from thistles?"

"Who won the war against Germany?"

"What is a slacker?"

"Can a man be a slacker in time of peace?"

"How does a careless baseball player interfere with the success of the team?"

"What difference does it make whether the voters in America vote intelligently or not?"

"What is the senate?"

"How may the constitution be amended?"

"Can you suggest any changes or additions that would make the constitution fit the present conditions better?"

The "studies in citizenship" are divided into eight lessons under four general headings, as follows:

- 1—The meaning of liberty.
- 2—Constitutional government.
- 3—National defense.
- 4—Military training.

A part of the study period, according to the directions contained in the manual is to be taken up by reading, by the instructor, of certain specified passages from the declaration of independence, the constitution, speeches by Patrick Henry and other American patriots, and the patriotic writings and utterances of noted Americans of more recent years. A few of the "readings" are from modern works on history and from economics.

Robert M. Sebastian, Well Known Local Grocerman, Is Dead After Brief Illness

Robert Milton Sebastian, well known Glendale grocerman of 145 North Glendale avenue, died Sunday afternoon, April 1, 1923, at the family home at 1212 Viola street, where he had been seriously ill since last Thursday with acute indigestion. While in frail health Mr. Sebastian was able to be up and about and his condition was not considered grave until he suffered the attack on Thursday.

Mr. Sebastian was born in Ventura, June 14, 1870. He came to Glendale four years ago and purchased his grocery business. His business venture proved very successful, for, in addition to building a fine business, Mr. Sebastian made a wide circle of friends, who will regret to learn of his death.

He was a member of the Masonic lodge at Oxnard and he retained his membership in that lodge.

Surviving him are his widow, Norma Sebastian; and son, Howard Sebastian, manager of the grocery business; and three sisters and four brothers, Mrs. Sarah Power of Van Nuys, Mrs. Florence Methvin of Oxnard, Mrs. W. O. Stewart of Los Angeles, John Sebastian of Roscoe, Charles E. Sebastian of 1717 Gardena avenue, Glendale, Eugene Sebastian of Ventura county and A. T. Sebastian of Oxnard.

A Masonic funeral for Mr. Sebastian will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial park, where burial will take place. The Jewel City Undertaking Company is in charge of arrangements.

First Baptist Church Raises $126,000 For Building Fund; Officials Proud Of Record

THE campaign to raise $126,000 for a new and larger house of worship ended successfully yesterday at the First Baptist church. About $51,000 was pledged at yesterday's services under the direction of Dr. F. H. Devine of Brooklyn, New York. Of this sum, $20,000 was raised in the morning, while the balance was raised in the afternoon and evening.

Rev. E. E. Ford, pastor of the church, and Roy L. Kent of 130 South Brand boulevard, chairman of its finance committee, are both proud of the success of the campaign. They called attention to the fact that less than a week's concentrated effort had been sufficient to put it over the top.

"The Church and the Community" was the subject of the morning sermon by Dr. Devine while the topic of his evening address was "The Life Worth While."

Following a lunch served by women of the church, ten teams visited the homes of all members of the church who had not had the privilege of making previous pledges.

PROSECUTION ACTIVE

SAN DIEGO, April 2.—The prosecution in the trial of Dr. Louis L. "Our present salary rates probably average about sixty per cent higher than in 1916," Doty's report stated.

SING CAROLS ON EASTER MORNING

Rain Does Not Stop Some From Making Trip to Mount Forest Lawn

About forty pilgrims wandered to the top of the knoll at Forest Lawn Memorial park in the early and cloud-bung dawn of a drizzling Easter morning, only to find that the plan for sunrise services had been abandoned, as told elsewhere in today's Glendale Evening News.

At 5:30 o'clock there were a dozen people on the knoll, with others visible winding up the roadway below. A half-hour later, with nearly a half-hundred disappointed citizens of Glendale, Burbank, Eagle Rock, Hollywood, Los Angeles and other points gathered on that eminence overlooking the valley, it was decided to sing a few songs, hoping that by 7 o'clock there might be some signs of a service.

Sing Easter Carols
So for the next half hour Easter carols were sung, and the act was one of the most beautifully simple and sincere expressions of community spirit ever seen in or about Glendale, it is declared.

When at last the singing stopped and the party wended downward, there was not a man, woman or child among them who had not been glad for the unique experience.

The following were among those present:

Mrs. H. C. Robbins, Miss Margaret Robbins and Miss Marie Gardner, of Los Angeles; Elmer Hook and Miss Elva Hook, of Burbank, and from Glendale, J. C. Parsons, Miss Ethel Hart, Mrs. Sam Carter, Miss Gladys Flagg, Miss Marjorie Green, Miss Rosalie Mudgett, Mrs. E. F. Foulke, Miss Outrunt Foulke, George E. Vaughan, G. Kopp, Frank Walter and Carl Gilman, Randolph Brinbridge, Miss Miriam Bainbridge, Randolph Bainbridge, Jr., Jean Sturgess, Robert Sturgess, Roy V. Rhodes, J. Reckling, C. Huber, C. M. L. Nelson, Miss Nelson, C. C. Rittenhouse, Miss Nelson, Miss Sooy, Miss Grace Yarrowbough, R. M. Ferguson, W. E. Sawyer, Howard Sawyer, J. S. Ripley, George Todd.

Suffocation Causes Death of Two Boys

SAN BERNARDINO, April 2.—The inquest into the death of Little "Dickey" Jensen, 6, and Dean Meecham, 4, who were found dead after being trapped in a small box, was scheduled to be held here today.

It was expected the investigation of the tragedy would officially end with the verdict of the coroner's jury that the lads met accidental death by locking themselves in the box. Mysterious angles of the case led investigators to believe the boys had been kidnapped and locked in the box by a fiend, but after a post-mortem examination physicians declared the boys met death by suffocation and starvation.

Funeral services for little "Dickey" will be held tomorrow afternoon. Last rites for Dean will be held at Provo.

The youngsters had been missing six days when they were found.

GIRL IS SOUGHT

LOS ANGELES, April 2.—Rosa Flores, formerly a "barmaid" in a Spring street soft drink establishment, was sought by Los Angeles county deputy sheriffs today in the investigation of the murder of Nunzio Spaminato, whose mutilated body was found late yesterday near Fullerton.

The officers sought to interview the girl when they learned that Spaminato, angered by her marriage to Philip Flores several months ago, stabbed her in the back.

POOR ADVERTISER

BOSTON, April 2.—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, came here from Washington today and fired one of the opening guns of the republican presidential campaign of 1924.

Speaking before the Women's Republican club of Boston, Davis declared that because President Harding "is a poor advertiser" and had refused thus far to "sell" his administration to the country, it is necessary for his friends to go out and do it for him.

EXCAVATOR RALLIES

CAIRO, April 2.—Lord Carnarvon, English Egyptologist who discovered Pharaoh Tut-Ank-Amen's tomb in the Valley of the Kings, suffering from the bite of an insect, collapsed today, but later rallied.

Need Research Department
Two Easter Comments
Back To The Old Home
Who Cares More For You?

By Gil A. Cowan

JUST as in big business organizations, with their efficiency departments for the betterment of the personnel and morale of the institutions, our great colleges, particularly the University of California, should have a psychological research department.

This recommendation has been made several times, but those in charge have felt the expense was greater than the results to be gained. Yet it is not true that a lack of intelligent understanding of the individual student's needs is responsible, in a large measure, for the failures among those who matriculate.

And, beyond a reasonable doubt,
it is a psychological situation,
rather than material, that causes many students to give up their studies. To the writer the value of practical psychology was brought home in the intelligence division work of the army during the world war.

Briefly, psychological research fathoms the hidden qualities or disabilities, and the revelation of the individual permits the subject of study to make the most of natural attributes and overcome defects. It is not uncommon to see many misguided souls in every profession, in every city and every country, failing for that lack of knowledge which is commonly called "horse sense."

True psychology, practically applied, is nothing more or less than "horse sense." Those who know life in its heights and its depths are natural psychologists. One of the best we ever met was the registrar of a military institute. You could not fool that fellow on anything.

So we reiterate, for the efficiency of all educational institutions, where "horse sense" may be meted out to the students, it would be well for a psychological research department to card index and follow up each individual enrolling for a course of study.

It would be an easy way to eliminate many failures as well as to tune up the product in general.

Easter Sunday, with all of its cherished ceremonies and its hillside services among the ever-blooming blossoms of the earth,
has come and gone again.

The gladstone hallelujah message from on high, the Son of God arisen from the tomb, the invitation to accept an everlasting life, and the commemoration of His promised return—true all enter-into the glorification which is well nigh irresistible.

Indeed, Easter is the season of true religion; it is the observation by man of a day which stands for new hope, increased fervor in deeds of righteousness and a pious consideration of those things which are God's.

Two little Easter comments:
Fred Stone, star of a musical comedy now playing in Sacramento, where this is written, one year ago
in a western city wandered into a Methodist church and consecrated his soul to God. He attends church regularly, but for he took it from him to feel for publicity.

"I feel I can make the world happier by my clownish antics than I could by preaching the doctrines which I believe," he says. And that is right, for a world of dogmatic gentlemen would be very dear.

Forty-one years ago Easter Sunday there was born in a little house in the hills near Sutter Creek, California, in the heart of the Mother Lode gold mining district, a son christened John B. Badar-acca.

Far from the old home he has traveled, going down to San Francisco and making a stake among the gold diggers of the Barbary coast. He has led his motley crew and finally landed in the halls of the state legislature as assemblyman, representing those who would have their wine and song.

But a week ago last Sunday it was the pleasure of the writer to accompany him to the old home where he played ball on the hillside in those happy days of childhood. And when he reached the little white house where he first saw the light of day, his thoughts turned to his mother.

Taking up the telephone he called for her home in San Francisco only to learn that she was ill. With tears in his eyes he asked a sister to deliver the message, "Mother, I am at the old home, 'Minking of you.'"

And he went down home Easter morning with a beautiful bouquet of lilies, for, as he says, "After all, who and who alone cares more for you on this earth than mother?"

EASTERN MYSTIC
IN ART LECTURE

Members of Art Association Hear Disciple of Tagore Speak

An inspiring lecture was given yesterday afternoon at the Glendale public library, by Koovery L.
Lillani, the great eastern artist and mystic, under the auspices of the Glendale Art Association, about fifty people attending.

Lillani, who is a disciple of the great Rabindranath Tagore, talked on the development of art from a new angle, stressing the psychic or soul point of view.

In his opinion, the soul is the real birthplace of art. He spoke of the relation between the material, the aerial and the ethereal bodies, stating that the three were more or less interwoven. To them he attributed what we call "individuality," stating that when these three bodies work in delicate harmony, the individuality of the person is greatest, and that person is keyed with the mystic life forces of earth.

Man of Culture
Koovery L. Lillani comes from Bombay, India, and has been in this country nearly a year, absorbing our western atmosphere. He is a man of profound learning and great culture, speaking eighteen different languages and being gifted in painting, philosophy,
music and literature.

Known as "the artist with a soul," Lillani's paintings, now on exhibit in the juvenile room of the public library, exhibit this quality to a marked degree, two in particular being very fine examples of the artist's work—"Our Lord"
and "A Portrait of Rabindranath Tagore."

Lillani never signs his paintings with his name, but puts on them
"Ora et Labora"—which, translated reads, "Love and Labor."

SACRED CONCERT

Last night at the evening service, the choir of the Tropico Presbyterian church, assisted by outside talent, rendered a beautiful sacred concert, telling the Easter story in scripture and song.

It takes four and one-third years for light from the nearest star to reach us.

A Funeral Service

Is, perhaps, the most hallowed rite of religion. It shows the return of the soul from its earth-body to its Maker.

At this time no earthly thought should intrude. This is no time for prying sound, no place for any accident, ill-divided movement or unforeseen interruption. Every movement must be planned—every incident forestalled. Nothing of this last cited rite can be left to chance. Only expedience should attend—and taste and tact—the highest kind—such as is included in our mortuary service.

CIVIC BODIES IN FAVOR OF BONDS

Leading Organizations Pass Resolutions Indorsing Airport Purchase

The unqualified endorsements that have been given to the plan to issue bonds in the amount of $49,500 for the purchase of the land included in the Glendale airport indicate the position taken on the subject by the leading business men and civic and commercial organizations in Glendale and goes far, it is stated by those in touch with the situation, to assuring the safe passage of the bonds at the election on April 10.

The Glendale Realty Board claims the honor of having first gone on record as favoring the passage of the bond issue, and it has been followed by the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, the Kiwanis, the American Legion Post, the Veterans of the Spanish War, the Glendale Improvement Association, the San Fernando Boulevard Association, the Glendale Credit Association and the Elks lodge, the Exchange Club, the Church Brotherhood and the Business and Professional Women's Club.

The tract embraces thirty-three acres, which was bought at a price of $2000 an acre, and it has been declared by a committee of real estate experts, acting as an appraisal committee for the Glendale Realty Board, that the land today is easily worth $3000 an acre. It was first bought to insure that Glendale would at all times have a sufficient supply of water to meet her every need, as it was the belief of the city authorities that the present three wells might at some time in the future be taxed to the limit to meet the city's demands. The recently purchased tract has been thoroughly prospected at different points and it has been shown that it is underlaid by a large number of strata of water bearing gravel at a comparatively shallow depth, insuring the city an abundant supply of water with a lift of not more than 150 feet in any instance.

Offered $2500 Cash
Offers have been received by the city officials from various parties to purchase the tract from the city for $2500 an acre, cash, in the event that the city should desire to dispose of the land.

As now laid out on the blue prints in the office of City Manager W. H. Reeves, the tract is divided into four distinct parts. One part, next to the Southern Pacific tracks, is to be restricted to industrial plants; the next is to be devoted to sites for factories engaged in the manufacture of airplanes and allied lines; the third has been set aside as a space for hangars for the air lines and similar organizations that will require space for their planes, and for the government planes that will land here as soon as the arrangements have been made to make Los Angeles the terminus of the aerial mail service; and the fourth part has been allotted to space for private hangars to be used by the aviation enthusiasts who own and operate their own planes. Between the public and private hangars the aviation field proper is laid out, with space for maneuvering and landing by the biggest planes in the country.

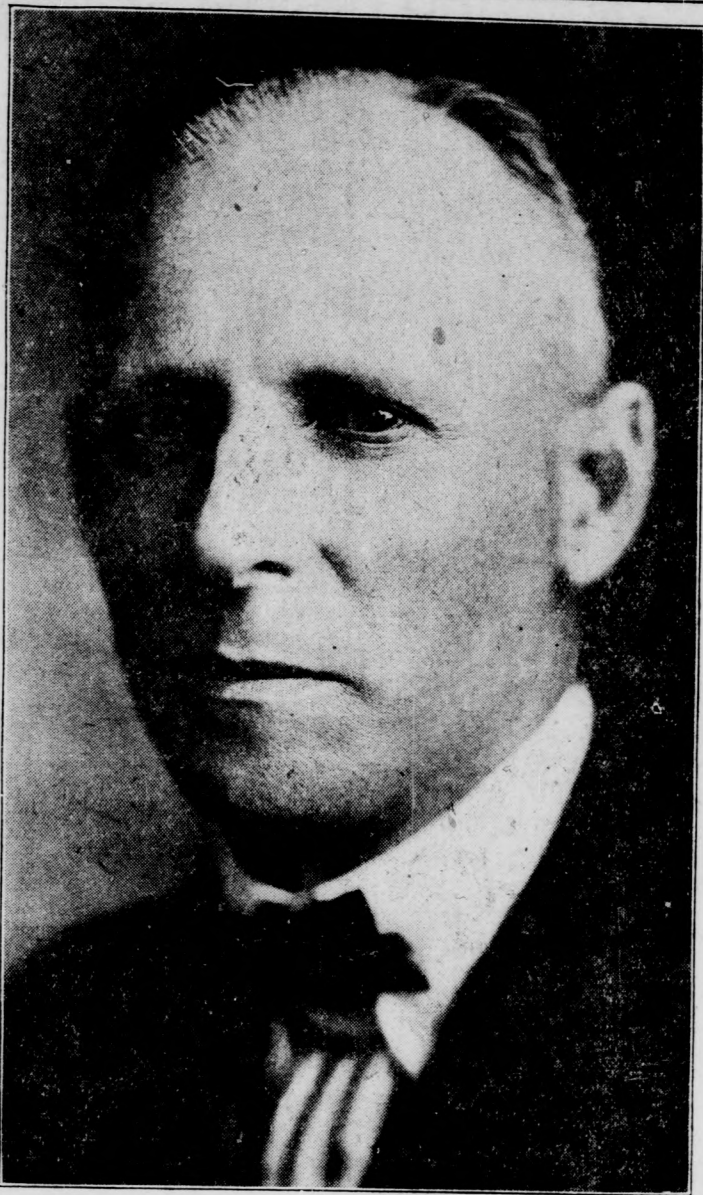

Moderate Rent

The private hangars will occupy a space of 50 feet each and will rent for $150 a year, as it is not intended to impose too heavy a tax on the men who are doing their share in building up the industry, and the total space available for hangar and factory space is figured at 4800 front feet, which, at the same rental as charged to the private airplane owners, $2 a foot, would bring in a rental of $14,400 a year, or much more than would be needed to retire the bonds and pay the interest on them. These figures are those that have been tentatively adopted, Mr. Reeves declares, to secure the establishment of factories and the renting of hangars by the men who are interested in the development of the industry and the desire to foster the building up of a permanent flying field in Glendale, and there is not at this time any intention to increase the charges. Many firms have already filed their applications for space at the field and as soon as the decision of the voters has been given favorably to the issue of the bonds these leases will be duly signed and these firms will proceed to erect their plants at the airport, transforming it into a hive of industry that will bring millions to Glendale in increased business and that will also attract here many hundreds of high priced workers with their families, building up the citizenship of Glendale from among the best class of people to be found in the country.

The airport project has been placed at No. 8 in the ballot that is to be voted on April 10, and it is essential, the City Manager declares, that the voters make a cross in the affirmative opposite this number in order to pass the bonds and to insure that the project that has already set Glendale in a class by itself among the cities of the west shall become an accomplished fact.

New Financial Institution Will Inaugurate System Of Loans To Salaried People

A. R. EASTMAN, president of the Glendale State Bank and president of the recently organized People's Finance & Thrift Company. The institution's purpose is to make loans to salaried people who have no banking facilities or property collateral.

A. R. Eastman and Excellent Board Of Directors To Manage The Peoples Finance & Thrift Company

Financing the wage-earner, whose capital consists of his character and his thrift, is a new line of finance which is being undertaken in Glendale by a group of local men organized as the Peoples Finance & Thrift Co., which will open offices Tuesday at 233 So. Brand Blvd.

The institution will be a semi-banking concern whose object is to make loans to the salaried person who has no banking facilities or property collateral.

A. R. Eastman, president of the Glendale State Bank, 109 East Broadway has been named head of the company. He is well and favorably known here as a banker and business man.

Other officers are:
Advisory Board
Wm. A. Howe, Lessee and Mgr. Glendale Theatre.
A. L. Ferguson, Treasurer City of Glendale.

Owen C. Emery, Attorney.
Wm. Hunter, Prop. Glendale Paint & Paper Co.
Chas. Bunting, Real Estate.
Wm. H. Hooper, Auto Tires & Supplies.

David Carney, Retired Merchant.
A. L. Ferguson, Vice-President of High School.
Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, Richardson Estate.

L. A. Hart, Real Estate.
Richardson D. White, Supt. Glendale Public Schools.
A. M. Yale, Contractor & Builder.

Directors
A. R. Eastman, Pres. Glendale State Bank.
C. D. Lusby, Pres. Lusby Mortgage & Inv. Co.

W. J. Lauderdale, Prop. Irish Linen Store.
David R. Boyd, Former Pres. State Univ., N. Mex.

W. E. Lusby, Vice-Pres. and Secy. Lusby Mortgage & Inv. Co.

J. J. Nesom, Director Glendale State Bank.
The company is a "Wimsett System" institution, created to meet the urgent demand of wage earners and salaried individuals for accommodation. Many of these borrowers are not property owners and in most instances are unable to borrow a dollar except as a personal favor. With the organization of the Peoples Finance & Thrift Company, they now have a place to which they can go for the necessary assistance and where character, industriousness and earning capacity are considered primary business assets.

"It will be our endeavor," says Mr. Eastman, "to assist those deserving of financial aid, of whom there are many, and especially those whose positions in the community and whose proper pride will not permit them to approach any other than a strictly business lending agency. But the purpose of our institution is two-fold, and our other primary object is to inculcate in those who borrow from us and the public generally a habit of thrift and saving that will lead many to ultimate financial independence."

In the year 1922 more than one hundred million dollars was loaned on this plan in the United States to wage earners and salaried people.

The average loan was $179, and the loss ratio was remarkably low, being less than one-tenth of one per cent. This firmly establishes the fact that character, plus earning power, is a proper basis for credit.

Other "Wimsett System" institutions are operating in Los Angeles, Pasadena, Long Beach, Stockton, San Jose, Santa Ana, Modesto, San Bernardino, Oakland and Sacramento, while new companies are now in process of organization in Pomona, Riverside and Ventura.

The Glendale institution is an independent company in every respect, being owned and managed by local business men.

BUILDING PERMITS FOR MARCH SET NEW RECORD

Third Million Dollar Month This Year and April Starts Off With Jump; List of Applications on File During March

BUILDING permits for March broke Glendale's record. The Security Trust & Savings Bank's $400,000 permit for the erection of its contemplated class A six story office building on the northeast corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway came in time to increase the total for the month from $636,475 to $1,036,475.

Last month's total exceeds the total of $1,024,336 for January by $12,439, the total of $1,022,699 for last April by $13,776, and the total of $1,019,613 for February by $16,862.

If the Security's permit had not been issued, last month's record would have remained $636,475. In this case, it would have been exceeded by $38,961 by October's total of $675,436 and by $80,305 the record of October, 1921, for $716,780. It would have taken sixth place among the months.

TODAY—Shanghai is rapidly becoming the "jazziest" city in the world, writes Edna Lee Booker, Shanghai correspondent.

TOMORROW—Hawaii library officials discovered recently that someone had been living inside a statue that adorned the front porch, writes Irene Gorbally Kuhn, Honolulu correspondent.

By EDNA LEE BOOKER

SHANGHAI, April 2.—Shanghai, long known as the Paris of the Far East, is fast gaining fame as the jazziest city in the world. For every day in every way Shanghai is becoming jazzier and jazzier.

Prohibition may have been the grape hanger on many of the smart cafes and restaurants in America and put many a jazz orchestra out of business, but—America's loss has been Shanghai's gain.

Every boat for several weeks has been bringing over San Francisco's famed ivory ticklers, New York's champ trombone artists, Chicago's "knock 'em dead" saxophone acrobats, to say nothing of the drum wizards from New Orleans.

As a result Shanghai has gone dance mad. Every one is dancing. Gorgeous cafes, costing hundreds of thousands of dollars are being built to accommodate the dancers. Every night the cafes are crowded with dancers and every afternoon the clubs, cafes and hotels are filled with tea dancers.

Even the wheelbarrow and ricksha coolies jazz a bit as they run along in front of the jazz palaces and as for the waters—how can they resist the syncopated strains that America's far famed orchestras play?

The Chinese flappers and leaders in Shanghai's Chinese smart set welcome the arriving orchestras. One of the largest Chinese hotels in the city has followed the example of the foreign hotels and is having Saturday night dinner dances.

Many business men are free from office at five o'clock in the afternoon. Immediately there is a rush to the clubs for Mah Jongg, bridge, poker and maybe white key-sodas, or to the tea dance. Dancing is enjoyed every afternoon in a number of cafes and hotels, and on certain afternoons at the clubs from five until eight o'clock.

CAN'T ADJUST HER FINANCES

Never Before Gave Money Thought, She Says

Denver woman who can't get used to small allowance imposed by court.

Mrs. Margaret T. Brown, wife of the late James J. Brown.

By MICHAEL F. DACEY
For International News Service

DENVER, March 31.—Margaret Tobin Brown—"the unsinkable Mrs. Brown," as she is widely known—just cannot adjust her expenditures to court restraint, and the curb placed upon her extravagant outlays is "extremely irksome," she complains.

Mrs. Brown, widow of the late James J. Brown, reputed wealthy mining man of Colorado and Arizona, gained international fame as one of the great spenders of Newport, Paris and Riviera resorts.

Brown died without leaving a will, and because of the objection of her two children, Lawrence P. Brown of La Jolla, Calif., and Mrs. Helen Brown Benziger of Hempstead, L. I., to her appointment as sole administrator of the estate, she was made co-administrator with the public administrator of Denver.

A preliminary inventory of the estate has been made, and under the Colorado law, Mrs. Brown has been allowed but $2,000 in the last three months from the property. All her applications for funds are supervised and regulated by Judge George A. Luxford, of the Denver county court, and Mrs. Brown, who has "never given money a thought" in her long social career, is having considerable worry in maintaining her palatial suite, with a large retinue of servants, at a local hotel.

"Why," she says, "there is $75,000 in cash right here in Denver banks, and I can't touch a cent of it without the court's permission!"

"There are many needs for money," Mrs. Brown says, enumerating an eclecticism, who reads her the latest books; three tutors to enable her to keep up her Italian, French and German; a music teacher, several private waiters, not to mention the premiums on her $750,000 life insurance.

Mrs. Brown has enlisted the aid of United States Senator Lawrence Phillips, of Colorado, in her aspirations to become a member of the United States embassy staff at the Court of St. James in London.

She has met in her twenty years of traveling, she says, all the important men and women of the world and feels that she would lend much dignity to the American embassy in London, if she were appointed as an under secretary.

"I can truly say," Mrs. Brown declared, "that I know everyone worth while from Moscow to the Bosphorus, and from Washington to Tokyo."

Mrs. Brown became known as "the unsinkable," when she survived the Titanic disaster, after heroically assisting in the rescue of women and children.

"Oh, ho! Now I shall get you!" cried the "Gator," with greedy eyes, as he saw Uncle Wiggily on the edge of the hill. "You don't dare jump off, and you'll have to stay there until I reach you and nibble your ears! I'm coming!"

"You are not going to nibble my ears if I can help it!" shouted Uncle Wiggily, and with that he began hopping as fast as he could hop. After him came the bad Skillery Scallery Alligator with humps on his tail.

Now Uncle Wiggily was so excited in trying to get away from the Alligator that the bunny rabbit gentleman took the wrong path. Instead of hopping along the path that led to his hollow stump bungalow, Uncle Wiggily, with his new, big, strong umbrella, hopped along the path that led up a high hill. And, before he knew it, Uncle Wiggily had reached the top of the hill. He came to the jumping-off place and behind him on came the Skillery Scallery Alligator with the humps on his tail.

"Oh, ho! Now I shall get you!" cried the "Gator," with greedy eyes, as he saw Uncle Wiggily on the edge of the hill. "You don't dare jump off, and you'll have to stay there until I reach you and nibble your ears! I'm coming!"

THE TWO-ELECTRODE VACUUM TUBE

Bearing in mind the simple described in the preceding article, the question will perhaps arise as to how a single electrode can be heated when it is inside of a glass bulb. That is simply done by shaping it into a loop and both ends brought through the base of the bulb, in exactly the same way that the filament of an incandescent lamp is used. These ends are connected to a battery of a few cells, generally giving a voltage of about six volts, though, at the time this article is written, a vacuum tube drawing only the voltage of a single dry cell is being very successfully used. The current from this battery heats the loop in a similar manner as the filament of an electric lamp mentioned in the preceding article.

Thus, the hot filament becomes one of the electrodes. For the other electrode a little plate of metal is used, generally bent in a circle around the filament, but, of course, not touching. Such a bulb containing a hot and cold electrode as thus described forms a "two-electrode vacuum tube" originally better known as a "Fleming valve," named after its discoverer.

At this stage it is interesting, and but fair to note, that the Fleming valve was inspired from a study of the effects of the Edison electric incandescent lamp. Thomas Edison, the inventor of the lamp, had experimented in its pioneer days and discovered, that by placing a plate within a bulb and touching the filament, a flow of electrons was observed from the filament to the plate. This was, and is, known as the "Edison effect." Fleming, casting about for an improved detector of radio signals, studied this effect and discovered that this flow of electrons was always in the same direction and of a negative nature, flowing from the heated filament to the cold plate. This flow could be controlled by inserting a rheostat in the filament circuit and increasing or decreasing the filament current. These valves when properly constructed, that is, when properly evacuated, made excellent detectors or rectifiers of "spark" radio signals. They were the stepping stone, as it were, to what they have today.

They Say That

The building activity now in progress in this country is providing the room and facilities needed for living, working and the enjoyment of life. But it is doing more than that. Along with the increase in indoor space and conveniences there is a notable increase in architectural beauty.

There is a veritable boom in architecture. Never has the architect had such an opportunity as he has today. Millions of people are spending billions of money on homes, offices, factories, banks, churches, libraries, city halls and other public buildings. They are not content with mere walls and roof. They want buildings that will be good-looking as well as useful and durable. There is far more attention to line, form and color than there ever was before. And the results speak for themselves.

Ugly buildings are still going up, sad to say. But it can be

VACUUM TUBE SOCKETS

Double and triple tube sockets can now be secured of the same type as the single tube socket which has been marketed for the past year.

Sockets are designed not only to firmly hold any standard four-prong vacuum tube, but to eliminate all disadvantages of inferior sockets. Particularly when using cascade amplifiers, the so-called "tube noises" actually prevent additional stages of amplification to be used. Fada sockets eliminate 60 per cent of the tube noises due to faulty sockets.

said no longer that the beautiful building is the exception. There has been a wonderful development in house architecture, so that American homes are coming to be the finest in the world. Business buildings, once mere rectangular boxes full of windows, are taking on grace and dignity. Churches and public structures of massive proportions are coming to be worthy and no-

Beautiful buildings need not cost any more than ugly ones. Beauty is more a matter of taking thought than spending money. And yet beauty, in a city, is always profitable. Paris found that out long ago, so did Venice.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S UMBRELLA JUMP

Once upon a time Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy saw Uncle Wiggily take his umbrella from the rack in the hollow stump bungalow and raise it over his head. I mean the bunny gentleman raised the umbrella over his head—not the bungalow.

Gracious sakes! I should say not! Uncle Wiggily couldn't lift his hollow stump bungalow up like that! But no sooner had he raised the umbrella than Nurse Jane squealed and cried out: "Oh, now you'll have bad luck Uncle Wiggily!"

"Why so, Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy?" asked Mr. Longears, slowly twirling his pink nose.

"Because you raised the umbrella over your head while you are here inside the bungalow," answered the nautilus lady. "That always brings bad luck."

"I don't believe in such silly things!" laughed the rabbit gentleman. "But I would have had bad luck, I'm sure, if I hadn't opened my umbrella here in my bungalow. I surely would have had bad luck."

"Why so?" asked Nurse Jane in her turn.

"Because," answered Uncle Wiggily, "this old umbrella of mine is full of holes. If I hadn't opened it I never would have seen them, and I might have gone out in the rain and gotten all wet. But, now that I know how ragged my old umbrella is, I am going out to buy a new one," and he did.

It was toward the end of March and would soon be April, when there are many rain showers, so Uncle Wiggily thought he would need a new umbrella without any holes in.

Away he hopped to the eleven and twelve-cent store, where the rabbit gentleman bought himself a large, strong umbrella.

"Now I don't care how soon it rains," chuckled Uncle Wiggily to himself, as he hopped back toward his hollow stump bungalow. He had not gone very far before, all of a sudden, there was a rustling sound in the bushes.

"Ah, this may be the beginning of an adventure," thought the rabbit gentleman. And it was. Looking behind him Uncle Wiggily saw the Skillery Scallery Alligator, with humps on his tail, wiggling out of the bushes.

"Oh, ho! Now for some good ears to nibble!" cried the Alligator.

"You are not going to nibble my ears if I can help it!" shouted Uncle Wiggily, and with that he began hopping as fast as he could hop. After him came the bad Skillery Scallery Alligator with humps on his tail.

Now Uncle Wiggily was so excited in trying to get away from the Alligator that the bunny rabbit gentleman took the wrong path. There was excitement and suspense in many parts of the world on the day Prof. Purkett made his find. Nations waited for the result of peace conferences and feared to hear of declarations of war. Prof. Purkett and his group of scientists dug in the ground of old Egypt for the mummy of a Pharaoh, and they found a tomb rich in treasure.

"Here," said the white-haired professor, "may have stood Tel-Amarna. This is a great day for the world!"

Into the tomb they went and drew forth the treasures. There was a spear and a shield, a sort of stool, many jewels and a generous supply of food and wine, sealed in stone jars and designed to furnish sustenance to the departed king on his route to the land of his gods. In the little group, away out of the sight of everyone, the excitement was no less than in Paris or Berlin.

"It is going to be some job carrying this away!" Casey, superintendent of transport of man of all work, was the only one in the party with a degree and a knowledge of archaeology, was perturbed only at the indications of work to come. He sized up the pile of plunder, picked up a small stone jug, and retreated behind a pile of sand.

The sun shone hot on the desert and blistered Casey's shoulders. Which was peculiar, for he wore his shirt had protected him. "How come?" he said to himself. "The sand burns the soles of my feet right through my shoes? This needs attention." Casey scrutinized himself and was astounded. Here he was barefooted and all but naked and not a man or a house in sight. He felt of the bright yellow cloth which he had tied around his waist and hung to his knees. Then he whistled loudly, leaped in the air, and clapped his heels together.

"Bad faith to the man who said I was Casey," he said, and he looked around for his spear and shield. "Everybody knows I am Tel-Amarna himself."

So Tel-Amarna set out on the desert and the horizon was broken with pyramids and sphinxes. Tel-Amarna walked boldly, swelling his chest as a conqueror. In time he saw a queer procession approaching.

"I am not afraid of them," said Tel-Amarna, "but while I get the lay of the land I'll hide behind this here pyramid."

First came a lot of very dusky men dressed much as was Tel-Amarna himself. Followed, in military order, a hundred or more men who bore spears. Then a troupe of musicians bearing instruments which looked like gigantic gourds. Came next the bearers of a palan-quin and on it a haughty man, who leaned with magnificent insolence on a pile of cushions. The rear of the procession was brought up by a huge slave who dragged after him on a chain a beautiful and black-haired maiden.

"This," said Tel-Amarna, as he sharpened his spear on the pyramid, "is no way for them fellows to treat a lady." He planned a rescue and looked about for something to throw. The eye of the warrior fell upon a stone jug. It looked familiar, and Tel-Amarna tilted it to the skies and drained deep. Then he went out to fight the army and rescue the girl.

"Come on, yez," cried Tel-Amarna to the Egyptian horde. "One at a time or all in a bunch. If yer knowin' what's good for you, you'll turn the lady free." And Tel-Amarna stooped to the burning sand and picked up paving bricks which came, marvelously, to his hand.

There was consternation in the army of the Pharaoh, for the aim of Tel-Amarna was of a kind never seen in all the land. Here was a human catapult beset with seven devils. The front rank of clouted huskies lifted one foot up and their chins and extended the other straight out behind. Then, as the blades of a pair of shears open and close, those legs moved, and the soldiers disappeared over a dancing horizon. Tel-Amarna laughed long, and threw bricks at the king.

The bearers of the couch gave way. Pharaoh fell from his throne and broke in two. Tel-Amarna, with his bare hands, severed the chain and liberated the lady, who was none other than Cleopatra. Rescuer looked at the rescued and felt strangely foolish.

"It is pretty hot out here on the desert, mam," he said. "Suppose we go look for a palm tree or a soda fountain?"

Cleopatra looked at Tel-Amarna and her eyes seemed to be cups of burning fire. The warrior thought of snakes and hypnotism. He tried to talk, to move, and found he could not.

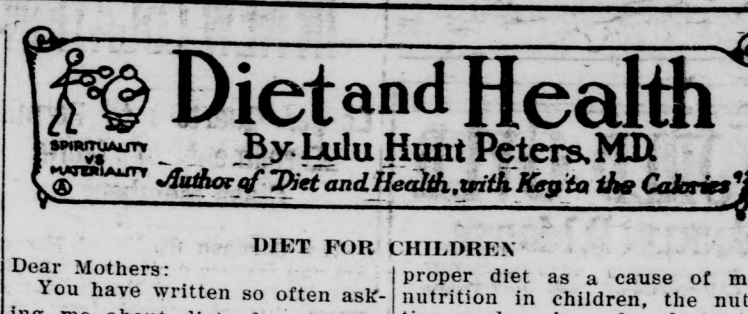

"Tell me," breathed Cleopatra, who are you who has saved me from the king?"

"Oh, me?" the man's voice was back again and uncommonly loud. "I'm Tel-Amarna, I am, Tel-Amarna." He kept on yelling it, louder and louder.

"Tel-Amarna, nothing," a new voice sounded in his ear. "You're Casey, and, besides, Tel-Amarna was a city, not a man."

Then he found the opened jug which he had sampled, and banished him henceforth to a tent by himself, away from the group. "All the same," muttered Casey, "I know more about them ancient Egyptians than they do."

Tomorrow—Drums and the Man

Dear Mothers: You have written so often asking me about diets for children that I am going to run a little series for you. Some of the articles I gave last year, but many of you evidently missed them, so I shall give them again. As the diet for under-nourished children is no different from the diet of the healthy child except that larger quantities have to be taken, this series will also serve for the very many of you who are under-nourished. I shall, however, give some special attention to these under-nourished children.

There are so many of these pathetic kiddies! The recent surveys made by the nutrition experts disclose that there are from five to six million in the United States. Something wrong, something wrong! What is it?

First, dear mothers, we believe it is this: While the weekly weighing of your babies has been almost a religious rite with you, you have not realized that the monthly weighing of your children is just as important. This is not altogether your fault. I believe we physicians have not emphasized this sufficiently.

Had the importance of a normal gain in weight in your children been emphasized and had their monthly weightings been carried out as faithfully as the weekly weightings of your babies, then when there was a failure to gain over any length of time you would have had the cause investigated, and you would have made some effort to remove it, the same as you did when your babies failed to gain. While weight is not the only criterion we go by, it is the best single thing we know of.

"Watch Your Weight!" is a health order of no mean value. Because this is so, a household scale is one of the most important pieces of furniture to buy. Instead of getting a scale for the baby only, invest a little more money and get one that the whole family can use. There are good ones on the market at comparatively low prices. If you cannot have the advantage of a home scale, then you must depend upon some other scale. In either case, you must have the child weighed at the same time of day, and the same time in relation to elimination and eating, and in the same weight clothes.

Aside from insufficient and improper diet as a cause of malnutrition in children, the nutrition workers have found physical defects, especially obstructive adenoids and tonsils, to be one of the chief causes of malnourishment. Dr. W. R. P. Emerson especially emphasizes this. I am going to say that obstructive adenoids and tonsils are not only one of the greatest causes, but that it is highly probable they are not only a cause, but also an effect, of malnourishment. That is, improper and insufficient diet is a factor in undermining the resistance, so that these conditions, as well as other diseased conditions, develop.

I do not want you to get the impression that I do not approve of having these obstructive adenoids and tonsils removed because I say this. There is nothing so striking as the immediate improvement in children who have had their adenoids and tonsils removed when they have obstructed the breathing. Obstructive adenoids and tonsils not only are sources of chronic colds and chronic infections, but they tend to deform the face and chest and oftentimes markedly retard physical and mental development. I certainly believe they should be removed if they fail to improve under local treatments and correction of the diet, and your family physician, in consultation with a nose and throat specialist, advises it.

Decayed and painful teeth must also receive attention. A child cannot chew his food and he is very apt not to eat sufficient food if chewing causes pain. Decayed teeth also furnish an entrance to disease germs and their resulting poisons, the same as diseased adenoids and tonsils do. Here, again, as in the case of the diseased adenoids and tonsils, malnourishment is a cause as well as an effect of improper and insufficient diet.

Among the other causes of lack of normal gain in weight and health in children are bad health habits, bad home surroundings, over-fatigue, nervousness due to improper discipline and lack of sleep. While this series is on diets, I am going to write a little on these causes of under-nutrition, because, despite the best sort of diet, children will not thrive if the conditions are not corrected.

DISHES IN THIS WEEK'S MENUS

TOMORROW'S MENU
Breakfast: Stewed Prunes with Lemon Cereal
Luncheon: Coffee, Fried Eggs, Wholewheat Toast
Dinner: Tomato-Bacon Dish, Lettuce Salad, Wholewheat Bread and Butter, Tea, Jam

Tomato-Bacon Dish: Cut the crusts from fairly thick slices of bread. Lay these bread slices in a buttered pan and place on each slice a generous amount of the firmer parts of canned tomatoes; sprinkle with sugar, salt and pepper and put a thin layer of finely chopped raw onion over the tomato. Now put your pan into the oven until the tomato is partly cooked and the onion turning a light brown. Then lay three uncooked slices of thin bacon over the onion on each slice of bread. Let continue to bake till the bacon is crisp (turn it, on the onion, when done on one side). Serve hot.

Corn-Tomato Soup: Scald one quart of milk with four slices of raw onion and two cups of canned corn. Now mix four tablespoons of flour with one cup of cold water until a smooth paste is formed. Add this thickening agent to the scalded milk and cook for ten minutes, stirring constantly. In another pot simmer one pint of canned tomatoes with two cloves and a bay leaf for ten minutes; then rub the tomatoes through a sieve and stir into the strained liquid one-half teaspoon of baking soda. It will froth up, and at this point add the tomato-liquid to the corn mixture. Also add one and one-half teaspoons of salt and home surroundings, over-fatigue, nervousness due to improper discipline and lack of sleep. While this series is on diets, I am going to write a little on these causes of under-nutrition, because, despite the best sort of diet, children will not thrive if the conditions are not corrected.

A little while ago I gave a brief description of a method for strapping the entire face at night with a cold cream pack under bandages. This was a tedious and complicated process, only to be used in extreme case of dry, neglected skin or wrinkles.

Chin strapping is simplification of this process. You will need several yards of old linen or muslin strips, two to three building cream is rubbed in thoroughly with the fingers. The motion under the chin is a circular one, working back from the tip of the chin to the throat, then upwards, raising the muscles at the corner of the mouth and passing across the cheeks to the ears. After five minutes of this massage apply a thick coating of cream and begin to bandage. The straps pass under the chin and around the head, spreading fan shape across the top of it, so as to hold in shape perfectly and yet not be uncomfortable. The straps should hold the chin firmly and should hold the muscles of the mouth and cheeks, if these have sagged.

In the morning wash off the cold cream with warm water and rub with a piece of ice, or spray the skin with cologne vinegar, which is a good astringent. treatment like this will do wonders in restoring a youthful chin line and improving the profile.

A Constant Reader: For a simple wedding such as you describe you could wear a suit, one that would serve you later for spring and fall wear. The semi-sport models are usually excellent for dressy occasions, and they are also very youthful and becoming. Of course a suit calls for a hat. If you prefer a frock, there are any number of dressy afternoon ones; the only thing to avoid would be an evening dress with low-cut neck.

D. D.: An oily skin will result from so many causes it is difficult to state how to overcome it without knowing all about the person's tendencies. A suggestion worth noting is to eat less fatty foods and drink plenty of water. Remove the oil from skin with a small piece of chamomile before applying the powder and it will not cake.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

THE LIFE OF THE PARTY

"At every party there is a man who is the life of the party. And how I do hate that man!"

A witty person wrote that in one of those ultra-smart magazines that thrive by making fun of everything and everybody. And it is good, though it brings to one's mind Lawrence Sterne's excellent distinction between "the festivity and the malignity of wit."

There ARE times when the Life of the Party annoys me. But there are other times when his antithesis annoys me just as much. I refer to the kind of person who never will inaugurate anything at a party, and who always sneers at one who looks down upon the person who does try to mitigate the deadness of a group of people who don't know just what to do with themselves.

I don't care whether you want to damn him by calling him the Life of the Party or not, I like the man who can bring out some parlor tricks or games or get folks talking and out of themselves at a time like that.

Good Cess to Him! A man I much admired brought together a heterogeneous mixture of small groups gathered at an inn for a week-end and kept indoors by bad weather, by such a little parlor game.

And because I think you may like to break the ice in some gathering of your own I am going to pass that and two other amusing little stunts along.

The first was a spelling test, just a sentence of words, most of them common but uncommonly hard. My mother had a very similar sentence that she had heard when she was a girl and used to repeat to amuse us children.

HAVE A SUCCESSFUL STOMACH

Weekly Health Talk No. 24
By Drs. Eble & Eble, Ds. C.

The successful man needs a successful stomach. If you are tied double with pain you are no good for work and hardly an influence for happiness in the family circle. The man or woman with a successful stomach has a first lease on bodily health and comfort, the foundation of success and happiness.

Drugs will never cure a weak stomach. Diet is only a way of getting along with the weakness—it tempers the kind and quantity of food to the degree of strength still left in the sagging digestive organ. The only health method that removes the cause of the weakness and restores the conditions of health and strength is the method of regular chiropractic vertebral adjustments.

SPORTS CHATTER

PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

With Joe Lynch, present world bantamweight champion, tottering on his throne, a glimpse backward into the history of this weight title is interesting and appropos at this time.

George Dixon, the clever colored boy, is the man first recognized as the world bantam champion. He was recognized as American champion in the latter '80's, and in 1890, by his defeating Nuno Wallace, the English champion—the weight limit then was 112 pounds—Dixon won the world title. Dixon defended his title for about a year, then outgrew the class and entered the feather division. Jimmy Barry of Chicago then claimed the title, and is today recognized as being probably the greatest title-holder at the weight this country ever produced. He held the title undefeated for four years, and then retired, and Terry McGovern fell heir to the crown. He held it for a year, then, like Dixon, graduated to the feather.

Harry Forbes then claimed the title and held it for two years, but on August 14, 1905, he met Frankie Neil at San Francisco, and the latter became champion by knocking out Forbes in the second round. In October, 1904, Joe Bowker of England relieved Neil of the world title, and in 1905 Neil retired as American titleholder. Jimmy Walsh of Boston claimed the United States title and fought Digby Stanley of England for the world title a twenty-round draw. Walsh retired in 1907, and Johnny Condon claimed the American title in 1907 and held it for seven years, until Kid Williams knocked him out. Williams had previously knocked out Ledoux of France, holder of the world title, and thereby brought the belt back to America.

Pete Herman was next in line by decision over Williams and since then the title has been juggled about like a shuttlecock. Herman held it for three years, then lost to Joe Lynch, who was a six-month champion, losing again to Herman, who was champion for a second time lasting two months. Then John Buff took it from Herman and held it ten months, only to lose it to former "six month champion" Joe Lynch. That was July, 1922, and Lynch is still champion, but present indications are that the first good prospect he goes against the title will change hands again.

Here is the listed sequence of champions:

George Dixon, 1889-1892, held title four years; Dixon entered feather class, title lapsed to 1894.

Jimmy Barry, 1894-1898, four years; undefeated, retired.

Terry McGovern claimed title, 1898 and 1899; McGovern entered feather class, title vacant two years.

Harry Forbes, 1901-1903, two years.

Frankie Neil, 1903-1905, two years.

Jimmy Walsh, 1905-1907, two years.

Johnny Condon, 1907-1914, seven years.

Kid Williams, 1914-1917, three years.

Pete Herman, 1917-1920, three years.

Lynch, 1920-1921, six months.

Pete Herman, 1921, two months.

Johnny Buff, 1921, ten months.

Joe Lynch, 1922 to date, still champion.

Bay City Manager Predicts

Winning Season as Training Ends

By JACK MILLER
Manager of San Francisco Ball Club
Written for International News
SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—The San Francisco club opens the season this year with a team fully 100 per cent stronger than the one which inaugurated the 1922 season.

Last year at the opening we were relying on three pitchers, Dick Davis, Claude Gillenwater and Herb McQuade, as our regulars. They failed and their places were taken by Harry Courtney, Pat Shea, Douglas McWeeney and "Shovel" Hodge.

The latter four, with our other regular pitchers at the end of the season, formed one of the strongest pitching staffs in the Coast league.

We are starting this season with the same pitching and catching staff as last year.

When the '22 campaign opened, we had no shortstop—our infield was not completed. Hay Rhyne, who later proved to be the sensation of the league, was an uncertainty, and Ellison, our first baseman, opened the season at short.

Infield Is Strong
The infield with Ellison on first, Kilduff on second, Rhyne on short and Flashkamper on third is in my opinion, easily one of the best in the league.

Of course we are opening without Willie Kamm and Jimmy O'Connell. In Kamm's place we have Flash Kamper, a youngster who has fielded exceptionally well, has a great arm and has been hitting very well in the exhibition games.

Although his experience has been at short, he is rapidly mastering the plays at third.

In replacing O'Connell we purchased outfielder Tim Hendrix who has been for many years one of the hardest hitting outfielders in baseball. I think he will hit as well as Connell.

Predicts Victory
Gene Valla, a green player this time last year, is now recognized as one of the greatest outfielders in the league. Joe Kelly and Pete Compton, the two remaining outfielders in the club are each far above the average outfielder.

Everything considered, the average strength of our club for the whole season this year will be much greater than the strength of last year.

Although I believe the race will be closer than during the past season, I nevertheless believe San Francisco is again going to win the pennant.

Union Serves Ultimatum on Commission Asking Representation

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
For International News Service
CHICAGO, April 2.—An ultimatum demanding that the major league ball players' union be given representation on the National commission was received at the office of Baseball Commissioner Landis here today.

Such representation, the communication asserts, is "absolutely necessary in order that the players may be assured that they are being fairly dealt with by the club owners."

Judge Landis, Ban Johnson, President of the American league, and John Heydler, president of the National league, at present constitute the National Baseball commission.

The ultimatum was sent from Milwaukee by Ray Cannon, an attorney and formerly a baseball player, who organized the ball players' union. The communication was signed by the "executive board" of the National Baseball Players' association.

Deny Players' Rights
"You have made laws and regulations binding upon the ball players," the communication sent to Landis, Johnson and Heydler declares. "You have laid down iron clad rules to be enforced against the ball players without the players being given a voice in the creation of the laws governing them."

"You have set the terms of the players' contracts, and have passed upon all the vital baseball problems which directly affect the ball players, and rendered decisions without the advice and counsel of the players."

"For these reasons the National Baseball Players' association demands that a representative be given a seat at a voice and a vote on the National Baseball commission and full power to participate in all its business and sessions."

The National commission is requested to give the ball players' demand "early consideration" and advise whether or not the demand will be granted or refused.

Wait Landis' Reply
Cannon, over long distance telephone, would not say what action would be taken in the event the National commission rejected the demand. He said the executive board would not act soon as the reply was received.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN R. MORSE

"Red" Murray, of San Francisco, representing the Olympic club, who recently won the national handball title, comes by his distinction through sheer hard work, and his friends consider it a fit compensation to an athlete who, for many months, has been putting in his spare time to perfecting himself in the game. All the more credit is due him for the fact that up to half a year ago Murray had perfected his game with the "soft" ball, so that when the change came to the "hard" ball he had the discouraging prospect of entirely changing his style of play and learning all over again. At the bottom it is likely to be discovered that most champions acquire top-notch positions only through hard practice, and that few of them merely fall easily into the honors. In the latter case it is generally brought about when a champion is not on hand to defend his title.

With the sound of the coins jingling in the clothes of the fans preparatory to dropping them into the turnstiles of the Pacific Coast league, the political noise that some of the owners of clubs have been making suddenly is becoming less apparent. All of which is confirmatory of the opinion expressed in many quarters that when the time came to take in the golden shekels, the politicians in the league also were good enough business men not to let it interfere with the financial harvest about to be gathered. At all events, it has laid the cards on the table face up, and President William H. McCarthy knows just where he stands, so that his opposition unwittingly has given him every warning, so that he can frame his future moves to the best interests of the league, and incidentally, his own.

The showing of "Brick" Muller, star end of the University of California football team, and captain of the track and field team, in his two preliminary spring meets, has been a disappointment to his friends, but they figure he has not yet gotten the kinks out of his muscles, and that, as the warmer weather comes along, and he has had more time to get into trim, he will again show up in his old-time form. Muller enters in several events, but he has made an indifferent showing and has failed to add anything worth while to the strength of the Blue and Gold organization. The chances are all in favor of his making a rapid improvement from now on.

One hears remarks nowadays in wrestling circles that Strangler "Ed" Lewis, world's champion, is not at all anxious to again get on the mat with Joe Stecher, from whom he won the title. It is whispered that Strangler is conscious of the fact that he is not all that he once was, and that he figures Stecher has not slipped as far as he has. At all events, Stecher has been trying for some months to arrange a match, while the champion certainly has been sidestepping such an affair.

Clubwomen Leave for San Luis Obispo Meet

When the Southern California club women's special steamed out of the Southern Pacific station in Glendale this morning there were seven prominent members of the Tuesday Afternoon club aboard bound for the district convention at San Luis Obispo today, tomorrow and Wednesday.

The convention is of special interest to Glendale and the Tuesday Afternoon club since Mrs. Charles H. Toll is to be candidate for the presidency.

Glendale women at the convention are Mesdames Daniel Campbell, A. H. Montgomery, W. E. Evans, H. D. Charlton, C. J. Gans, Mattison B. Jones and R. E. Chase.

These delegates were accompanied to the depot by a group of club members who bade them farewell. At the depot were Mesdames M. E. Plasterer, Frank Ayars, John Robert White, C. W. Houston, E. W. W. Hayward, A. P. Findlay and H. E. Bartlett.

You may change the clock and kid yourself, but you can't fool the old stomach when dinner time arrives.

It is pointed out that the profits that are to be turned over to the Chamber of Commerce and the Credit Association are to be used as a fund for advertising Glendale, and none of the money in this fund is to be diverted to any other purpose, and for this reason it is urged by these two organizations that the local business houses in every line get behind the project and help to make it an unqualified success, and something that will reflect credit on the city and its commercial life.

The fact that this is practically virgin territory for an industrial exposition, where merchants and manufacturers can lay the foundations for a greater volume of business through the flood of visitors who will be here during these ten days, is proving a strong argument with many of those who have already taken space in the exposition or who are contemplating doing so, according to Mr. Leavitt.

Harrower Squad Is Defeated; Score 9 to 4

The ball game yesterday afternoon between the Harrower laboratory nine and the Rosslyn hotel outfit, played on Diamond No. 4, Exposition park, Los Angeles, resulted in a 9 to 4 defeat for the Glendale boys.

The score up to the third was 3 to 0 in favor of the Harrowers, but Jess Stevens, their twirler, suddenly went wild and passed eight men before Captain Culhane retired him in favor of Buck Smith, who held the balance of the game in good shape.

The damage, however, had been done and there was no repairing it.

Clive Winning, who caught for both pitchers, was steady at all times and did his best to hold the team together.

office when the communication arrived. He is in Florida, touring the spring training camps. His secretary, Leslie O'Connor, declined to comment. President Johnson said:

It is my understanding that American league ball players are not interested in this union."

The ultimatum from the union does not mention the American league, but asserts that "the great majority of the players in the National league have become members of the association."

CAVANAH STUDIO IN NEW LOCATION

Larger Quarters to Permit Enrollment of More Class Members

The Cavanah Studio of Music, Art and Science opens today in its new quarters at 130 North Orange street, having moved from the address at 214 East Broadway on Saturday. The new home affords larger scope for the various classes and is much more commodious than the old studio, permitting the enrollment of larger numbers of students.

Mr. Cavanah announces that "Other People's Husbands," a very clever one-act comedy, by Miss Margaret Penny, of Pasadena, which made a decided success with its initial performance some months ago at the Pasadena Community Playhouse, is to be presented by the Eagle Rock Community Players at the Central school auditorium, Eagle Rock, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, April 4 and 5. Mr. Carter Moore, director of the dramatic department of the Cavanah Studios, is taking an important role in "Other People's Husbands." Mr. Moore has had several years' experience in Little Theatre and Community Theatre work, both as an actor, and also as director. He has also been on the professional stage, and in recent years has devoted his time to teaching elocution and dramatic art.

Another very clever one-act play on the same program with "Other People's Husbands," in which Mr. Moore will also appear, is Stuart Walker's "The Trimplet." It will be worth your while to go and find out for yourself, for "The Trimplet" is one of the pleasantest fantasies ever produced.

Easter Vacation in Camp at Mt. Baldy

Easter vacation was a real vacation for one group of Glendale boys and girls, who, with Mrs. Howard Walker of 523 North Ventral avenue, and Mrs. J. H. Searles of 1248 South Boynton street, motored up to Camp Baldy last Tuesday and enjoyed an outing at the Walker cabin until Saturday afternoon.

It was an unusual vacation, for, in addition to enjoying the beauties of the spring in the mountains, the children and their chaperones had a real taste of winter weather and sport, when they hiked up into Icehouse canyon, beyond Camp Baldy in San Antonio canyon. There they found sufficient snow for snowballing and sliding.

A good supply of food was taken along, and the outdoor sports and hikes whetted the appetites for the meals prepared by Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Searles.

The party included Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Searles, Elizabeth Walker, Leona Hunt, Mabel Todd, Carlisle Ayars, Carleton Walker, Kenneth Hellyer, Homer Searles and Henry Grace.

CITY ATTORNEY EXPLAINS ISSUE

Hartley Shaw Relates Why
Bonds Are for $49,000
And Price $66,000

Editor The Evening News: The question has been asked, "Why the proposed Glendale city bond issue for the purchase of water bearing land is for only $49,000, while the price of the land is $66,000." The reason, in brief, is simply that the city can pay the difference of $17,000 out of its income for this fiscal year. That being the case, why should it issue bonds covering this difference and pay interest on them?

When the contract was made with Mr. Radcliff for the purchase of this land, the total price named was $66,000, and the sum of $16,500 was then paid to him out of the income of the public service department. The balance of $49,500 is by the terms of the contract payable during a term of years, but the city has the option of paying it at any time.

If this contract is held to be a valid contract and the bond issue carries, this balance will be paid at once, $49,000, coming from the proceeds of the bonds, and $500 from the city's revenue for the current year. The bond issue was reduced from $49,500 to $49,000 in the course of drafting the papers, merely for the convenience of being able to divide it into an even number of $1,000 bonds, on the assurance of the controller that this difference of $500 can be taken care of out of the current revenues.

Plan Is Approved
On the other hand, if the contract for the purchase of this land is held to be invalid, Mr. Radcliff will have to return to the city the sum of $16,500, which he has already received. This amount then being in the treasury, will become a part of the revenue of the current fiscal year, from which it was paid, and can be appropriated for the purchase of the land, and the above-mentioned sum of $500 added to it to make $17,000, and the balance of $49,000 to make the total price of $66,000 will be paid out of the proceeds of the bonds, if voted.

This plan of issuing bonds for less than the total price of the land, payment of the balance to be made out of current revenues, has been followed in other cities, and has been approved by attorneys representing the principal bond-buyers of this vicinity, to whom our resolution to that effect was submitted before the election was called.

HARTLEY SHAW,
City Attorney.

BURBANK TO GET REFINERY PLANT

Snowelene Co. to Establish Station Financed by Valley Capital

Burbank is soon to have a unit of the Snowelene Refining company's chain of refineries being established at points twenty-five miles apart, in this section of southern California, it is announced.

The Burbank plant is to be a separate corporation, with a directorate comprising the following men: A. Senne, J. D. Radcliffe, W. J. Riley, Mrs. Harriet Greenman and W. P. Coffman.

Unit No. 1 of this chain of refineries is now said to be operating successfully in Los Angeles, "Peacock Quality Gasoline" being the product turned out.

It is stated to be the purpose of the Snowelene Holding company to build these units at the points of distribution, instead of following the former custom of

CANCEL SERVICE AT FOREST LAWN

Rain Causes Postponement
Of Proposed Easter
Celebration

April Fool put the jinx on Glendale's Easter Sunrise Services. Rain, which had spent a large part of Saturday night washing the faces of the flowers for the Easter display, by 4 a. m., had dampened the atmosphere so thoroughly that it was decided with much reluctance to postpone the services until next Easter.

Val M. Hollister of 416 North Louise street, president of local Community Service, this morning expressed regret that the inclemency of the weather had interfered with the program. He is hopeful that Jupiter Pluvius will be more favorable next Easter.

The postponement of the services was decided upon after R. E. Tucker, local director of Community Service, and Francis Gordon, local representative of Forest Lawn Memorial park, had gotten in touch over the telephone with A. L. Baird, chairman of the music committee for Community Services.

Although the rain had abated somewhat at dawn, there were two other reasons why it seemed inadvisable to hold the services: First, the mudiness of the hillside trails and road, and second, the dampness which might prevent members of the church choir from singing later at the various church services.

The telephone was used to notify as many as possible the program had been postponed. Frederick Ward, who was to have recited Van Dyke's "God of the Open Air," Madame Constance Balfour, who was to have sung Granier's "Hosannah," and J. P. Poulin, who was to have directed the chorus, were all able to continue their slumbers.

Buglers Were Awake
Buglers were not so fortunate. Most of them took their stations and ushered in the dawn. The following were scheduled to have played reveille: E. E. Moniot, 408 South Brand boulevard; Arnold Trachsel, 842 South Fischer street; P. L. Woolard, 110 South Columbus avenue; Jack Stoeckl, 539 West Harvard street; Allan Nicklin, 2501 Hermosita avenue.

Boy scout buglers were Robert Seales, 121 East Cerritos avenue; Floyd Craft, 609 North Jackson street; Tom Buell, 501 North Louise street; Roscoe Graham, 224 West Harvard street, and Bill Bradbury, 801 East Acacia avenue. They did their good turn in some other way.

A squad of men from the police department under Chief F. D. Fraser and Lieut. Joe Griffin made their appearance at Forest Lawn. Other officers in this detachment were: Louis Nunn, C. B. Blake, M. H. Collins, C. F. Abbott, G. M. Booth and D. L. Fleming.

transporting the crude oil to a central refinery and re-shipping the finished product to points where it can be delivered to the ultimate consumer.

Use Local Capital
It is said to be the plan of the company to finance each unit as far as possible with local capital, and to this end the financing of the Burbank plant is in the hands of William D. Gutman, who has established sub-agencies in the various San Fernando valley points, including Glendale and Hollywood.

The authorized capitalization is given out as $300,000 divided equally into shares of common and preferred stock, the latter being offered to the public.

John McKeon, of the McKeon Drilling company, is president of the Snowelene Holding company, and F. E. Snowelene, who is to build the Burbank refinery, is interested financially.

MINOR OPERATION
A minor operation was performed this morning upon Mrs. Ida Holmes of 510 Oak street at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Sermon Excerpts And News Notes From Local Churches

CHURCHES of Glendale held solemn, impressive services yesterday, attended by large crowds. Pastors preached on varied topics and special music was provided by soloists and choirs. Herewith are presented brief excerpts from sermons and, too, other church news:

Impressive Services For Knights Templar

The Easter service of the Glendale Commandery of the Knights Templar at the First Congregational church was participated in by many Glendaleans, all seats in the main auditorium, the chapel and balcony being filled in spite of the much-needed rain storm.

The ritualistic services of the Commandery were beautiful and were impressively conducted in a manner that showed careful thought and preparation. The Sir Knights entered the church during the singing of "Oswald, Christian Soldiers" by the congregation and choir. Then followed a well-rendered anthem, "Awake, Thou That Sleepest" (Owst), sung by the Congregational church choir of thirty voices under the direction of Howard E. Cavanah, and accompanied ably by Gertrude Champlain Erb.

Madame Ellen Beach Yaw graciously responded to the invitation of the church and commandery committee and was the guest artist for this occasion, singing two very appropriate numbers during the service. "Hail, Joyous Morn" (Cadman), and "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" (Handel). Her beautiful soprano voice filled the auditorium with a wonderful sweetness and the charm of her presence gladdened the congregation.

Another unusual feature of the program was the singing by a chorus of men's voices of an anthem "Hosanna, Christ Is Risen," written by the musical director of the church, Mr. Cavanah.

Rev. Charles M. Calderwood, both in the capacity of a Sir Knight and as pastor of the church, brought the Easter message filled with cheer and rejoicing because of a risen Lord, who has made possible the redemption of man from his ignorance, wrong thinking and living.

The evening service was also different in its nature, for the noted Persian scholar, Mirza Asad Sohrab, lectured on the "Awakening of the East," a fitting climax for Easter Day services. His talk was very entertaining and instructive, as he speaks excellent English with all the flowery eloquence of the Persian poetry and imagery.

Mrs. Beatrice H. Cavanah sang two songs in the Persian language, the one a hymn of the new age and the other a folk-song, which added greatly to the impressiveness of Mr. Sohrab's discourse.

Members Give $22,000 For Church Activity

At the Easter services held at the Gospel Temple of the Christian Missionary Alliance church, Sunday morning, the members contributed to the special Easter offering $22,000, in less than 22 minutes. Of this amount $5000 was given in cash and the balance was covered in short time pledges. It is stated $11,000 is to go towards the building fund and $11,000 to foreign missions.

Pledge cards were distributed and as returned the amounts were read, which was followed by songs of praise by the congregation. This offering is in addition to more than $13,000 already given in cash in the past three months.

FOOTBALL CLUB

The Football Improvement Association will meet 8 o'clock Tuesday night, April 3, at the Grand View school, announces Mrs. M. B. Buckman, secretary.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Reality" was the subject of the discourse yesterday at the Christian Science church.

Death Is Merely Bend In Highway of Life

Easter was observed at the Presbyterian church by a service rich in music of the resurrection and sweet with flowers.

"The moment you recognize Christ you must recognize His resurrection," asserted Rev. W. E. Edmonds. "He did not promise any further sign beyond that one. His rising from death was all and enough; it confirmed everything."

"Because He lives, then we too shall live. There is no such thing as death to the believer. Then why the crape and the drawn curtains? The world says at the grave, 'This is the end.' But the great bulkwork of our faith is, 'If a man die he shall live again.' Death is not the end, it is but a bend in the road."

"The summit of Paul's resurrection message was, 'Through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins.' He has come forth and is able to save unto the uttermost them that come unto Him. Resurrection is the foundation for us. Everything we have hinges here. If those things Paul preached are true, and they are, what manner of men shall we be, in view of them?"

"There is a tendency now to commercialize this day, and make it a day of show and self-indulgence. Oh, what an Easter of the heart! Those scars of the wounds for us that He bears, what shall we be, in view of those scars? When we see Him, we shall be like Him. If you are going to be like Him, you must begin now."

Christ's Resurrection World's Greatest Fact

"Without the fact of the Resurrection the shadow of the cross would have cast untolerable gloom upon this world of ours and despair like a great cloud, even as the pall of death, would be still hanging over us," said Dr. James P. Winnard yesterday morning at the Tropic Presbyterian church.

"Paul hits the keynote of the whole Christian system when he proclaims: 'But now is Christ risen from the dead.'"

The Resurrection, according to Dr. Winnard, was the greatest fact in all history. He called attention to the fact that it has to do with both the present and future of this world, and emphasized the fact that this event was attested by many witnesses.

"His resurrection is a type of that which shall be," he remarked. "His resurrection brings to us a spiritual message: 'As I live ye shall live also.'"

"Forget the things that are behind and press on toward the mark. So let your life and service prove the doctrine of your Christ."

Bible Institute Gives Special Easter Music

The Bible Institute Glee club interpreted a program at twilight yesterday in the First Presbyterian church.

Music, which was under the direction of Mrs. P. M. Retts of 114 West Park avenue, was a feature of both morning and evening services. Oscar F. Walton of Los Angeles was the organist. At the matutinal service Miss Elizabeth Mottern of 211 North Adams street sang Handel's "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" as a soprano solo. Miss Marjorie Jean Bailey played a harp selection "Communion in G," by Batiste.

At the nocturnal service Robert F. Maile of Los Angeles sang a baritone solo, "Light," by Scott. Miss Esther Gleiss played Borowski's "Adoration" as a violin solo.

Music Is Feature at Lutheran Services

The Sunday school of "The Friendly church" presented a lovely program last night under the direction of Mrs. H. C. Funk. Special Easter music was rendered at the morning service by a chorus choir under the direction of Mrs. Ida A. Hoffman of 327 North Maryland avenue. Mrs. Mary Louise Bowman was also complimented for her rendering of "The Holy City."

ST. MARK'S MUSIC

Mrs. Virginia Freeman of 314 Dryden street sang a soprano solo last night at St. Mark's Episcopal church. It was Granier's "Hosannah." The morning organ prelude by Mrs. Joseph Kitt of 449 Pioneer drive included "Hosannah," by Dubois.

TABERNACLE MUSIC

Mrs. E. C. Hormel of Spokane, Wash., sang several soprano solos yesterday morning at the Gospel Tabernacle. Rev. C. H. Chrisman's Easter subject was "Who Is This Risen Jesus?"

MRS. JETER SPEAKS

Mrs. Jerry Jeter was the speaker yesterday afternoon at the tabernacle of the Broadway Methodist church. The evening service was in charge of Evangelist Jeremiah Jeter.

The present theory of evolution is that it affords considerable free advertising for public men who discuss it.

Savior's Empty Tomb Is Believers' Shrine

The Easter sermon by Rev. C. A. Cole was one which will be long remembered by members of the Central Christian church.

"The great pilgrimages of earth are to the shrines made sacred because they entomb the ashes of those great ones whom myriads of fellow mortals have revered, followed, loved and crowned, held in deathless memory and often worshiped," he exclaimed.

"We live but a few years. Every century three generations enter their graves. For unreckoned ages the tombs have been filling and the dead outnumber the living a thousandfold. There is no spot of which you may not say, 'The dead are here!'"

"How these narrow houses have multiplied in our day! Five million white crosses in western Europe; five million down through Russia, Poland, Galicia, Greece and Armenia."

"Since Adam, since that first grave, we have all approached it. But in every clime, in every age, the dead are permanent, unchanging tenants of their narrow houses. Only in Joseph's garden is an empty tomb, and an angel saying, 'He is not here.' On that glad new, greatest Easter morning every tomb in every land shall be open to the dawn. This is the certain faith of the believer. This is the great hope of the Easter morning."

Cantata Is Rendered By Methodist Choir

"Victory Divine" was the title of a cantata presented last night by the vested choir at the First Methodist church. This was under the direction of Miss Isabelle Isgrig of Burbank, with Mrs. H. W. Randall of 429 North Kenwood street at the organ. The prelude was "The Holy City" and the postlude was "Hosannah."

Solo parts were taken by Mrs. William Peart, Miss Jenny Lacy, Miss Isabelle Isgrig, Mrs. R. F. Fitz, Dr. P. O. Lucas, Glenn Dolberg, J. B. Clarke, Frank Haines and M. S. Kuehny.

The morning music at the church also was complimented for its quality. Paul Butterfield, 421 Arden avenue, sang "Hosannah," by Grainger, accompanied by the chorus.

"On the Wings of Light" was sung by a mixed quartet composed of Miss Dorothy Peart, Miss Isabelle Isgrig, Frank Haines and M. S. Kuehny. A violin obligato was played by Miss Genevieve Mulligan. Mrs. U. Butterfield played the piano accompaniment. The Sunday school in the morning presented a pageant entitled "Voices From the Garden."

Easter Is Period of Renewed Fellowship

"The great message of Easter for us is that of renewed fellowship with Jesus after the tragic experience of Good Friday, just as the disciples went through a great trial in casting off the spirit of dejection following the crucifixion when the message came that Jesus had risen from the dead and had appeared unto the women at the tomb," said Rev. Philip Kemp, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, yesterday morning.

"For us, likewise, Easter is a day of joy, we have come, not to the empty tomb, but to the upper room, where Jesus greets us with words of cheer. It is a day in which we renew our fellowship with Him; some who have not visited His house for many months come back at this time. Jesus begs them to come into closer communion. To others it is a day in which we feel our common bond of one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all. Co-workers with God, we pledge anew our faith in Christ. He comes to us that we may be new creatures and go forward guided by His eternal presence."

Urges Hearers to Tell Tale of Risen Christ

"He is risen; He is not here; Behold the place where they laid Him!"

"This Biblical verse was the text of the Easter sermon yesterday morning at the Redeemer Evangelical Lutheran church. 'Today you hear the glad tidings,' remarked Rev. Henry O. Krueger. 'Should it be necessary for me to urge? No, indeed, we will gladly bear the joyous message to others. Therefore, let us all do our duty. If the holy angels had their way not one tongue would today find rest, not one Christian but all Christianity would be astir spreading the praises of Him who was delivered for our offenses. Let us rejoice and tell all that whosoever believeth in Him shall not perish but have everlasting life.'"

"We also are to approach and leave the sepulcher as did the women, who were the first ones to know of the resurrection. We may tarry and examine it to our heart's content in order to understand fully what a certain and glorious redemption it means. But when that blessed certainty has once filled our hearts there is work for us to do, there is a message for all of us to carry."

We Are Printing 7,000 Copies Daily

SINCE last December, when a special offer was made for new subscribers to The Evening News, and also for renewals, The Evening News' subscription list has been growing with marvelous rapidity, and especially has this growth been very marked in the past four weeks. Hundreds of names are being added to the list every day.

So encouraging has been the work of solicitors in Glendale and adjacent territory that it has been decided to extend the special subscription-getting drive to May 1, 1923.

This is the way you may help us: Pay 50 cents for a three months' subscription for yourself, and 50 cents for a three months' subscription for a friend who is not now a subscriber, and each of you will receive The Evening News for three months.

This means if you are not now a subscriber you may become one for a period of three months by paying 50 cents for your own subscription, and prevailing upon a friend who is a non-subscriber to pay a like amount for the same period.

A person who is now a subscriber may have his subscription date extended three months upon payment of 50 cents when such payment is accompanied by 50 cents for a three months' subscription from a non-subscriber.

'SPIRIT OF LIFE'
TOPIC OF FAREEDSacrifice Alone Can Bring Attainment, Is Claim
Of Preacher

Dr. Fareed's address at the Masonic Temple on "The Spirit of Life," which is the same as "The Life of the Spirit," was very appropriate for Easter morning. The keynote to the sermon was that sacrifice alone brings attainment. Even as a seed put into the soil must give up its individual life as a seed in order to sprout, and climb into life as a plant, so must one who would have spiritual life sacrifice the things of his individual life to bring about the blessings that come from the greater life of attainment with God who is Love.

There could be no resurrection without a preceding sacrifice in death. The Spirit of Life working from within outward could alone bring about the sacrifice. Words not only change in meaning, but are differently understood by differing minds, so symbols are better conveyers of the deep truths taught in all the great religious books given us by eastern writers, our own Bible among the rest.

Symbolize New Life
The Passover of the Jews, the Feast of Roses of the Parsees, the Easter of the Christian world, all symbolize resurrection to new life for the spiritual life of the soul. Heaven is that lofty state which the soul reaches when it has suffered the crucifixion of its own selfishness, the darkness of the tomb of self-sacrifice, and been resurrected to the life of the Spirit of Love.

A study of the lives of great teachers and prophets of all history will show that attainment is achieved only as the result of sacrifice. Having grown up in Persia and spent his youth in and near the country where our Bible was written, Dr. Fareed is well equipped for making clear to his audience the inner meanings of the allegories and symbolism employed by these Oriental writers.

A life-long student of spiritual truths and an earnest worker in the realm of psycho-analysis, he gives not only an intellectual treat, but practical truths that help to live "every day in every way better and better and better."

The public is invited to come and hear him next Sunday on "The Psychology of Self Mastery."

Ex-Kaiser and Wife
Separated, Is Report

LONDON, April 2.—The Yorkshire Evening Post, which recently printed a dispatch from Doorn saying the former kaiser had quarrelled with his new bride, Princess Hermine, and that they had separated, repeated the declaration today.

According to this newspaper, relying upon its Doorn correspondent, the present separation of the couple is probably permanent. Dispatches from other sources said the wife had gone to her ancestral home in Silesia to spend Easter with her children by her first marriage.

The Doorn correspondent of the Yorkshire Evening Post maintains the couple quarrelled and that Hermine, being a woman of strong will, decided to depart. He claims the break took place some time ago, but was kept secret from the German royalists for fear it would embarrass the monarchist organizers, who are active.

According to the Yorkshire Post correspondent, the former German emperor was unable to get on friendly terms with the children that his second wife had by her former marriage, and that his own children, by his first wife, have become more or less estranged to him by reason of his second marriage.

Prophecies Fulfilled
In Death of Christ

"Nearly 200 prophecies were fulfilled in the life and death of Christ," said Rev. Keith L. Brooks in the council room at the city hall yesterday morning before the members of the Men's Bible Class of the Presbyterian church.

"Christ died according to the Scriptures," he continued. "The divine program was fulfilled. His death was not simply the result of an unfortunate chain of circumstances. It was God's own program clearly foretold in the Old Testament."

"His body lay in a tomb, but a stone's throw outside Jerusalem where multitudes were continual passing during the feast and strong Roman guards were put at the door of the sepulchre. Why did not the rulers put an end to the story of the resurrection by showing that Jesus' body was in the grave?"

"Could twelve fishermen have shaken the world if they had gone out simply with the story that their leader had been killed? Would there have been a Christian church had they not carried along with the story of the crucifixion the commentary that He had risen?"

For Establishment of Branch

The Southern California Edison Electric Company has filed a long felt want by opening a branch office at Tujunga. It opened Monday morning in the Harris building on Michigan, avenue in charge of Miss Edith James, who will receive applications for service and payment of bills. Miss James is a recent arrival from Chicago.

The Edison company has taken a ten year lease on the building and will carry a complete line of electrical appliances and fixtures. The company's business was formerly handled by Dean & Co., on Sunset, but the business in this section has grown until a local office is a necessity.

School Re-Opens
The seventh and eighth grade pupils resumed their classes following the Easter vacation in the new school building at Tujunga. This gives two rooms in the old school building for the use of lower grade pupils, who, by reason of inadequate housing facilities, were forced to use makeshift buildings adjoining. This building will now be used for manual training classes.

The building just completed is the first unit of the new grammar school to be finished. One of the two remaining units will be started immediately.

TELLS PURPOSES
OF ORGANIZATIONBuilders' Exchange to Be of Great Benefit to City,
Is Claim

Attorney Henry Molz, secretary-manager of the Builders' Exchange of Glendale which organization has just been formed by some of the most prominent men of Glendale engaged in all lines of building activity, when interviewed today regarding the purposes and activities of the Exchange, expressed himself in no uncertain terms of the benefits to be derived from such an organization. He said:

"The reasons for the formation of the Builders' Exchange of Glendale are many. The Exchange is organized for the purpose of centralizing and controlling the elements regularly and actively engaged in all branches of the building industry, to inculcate the just and equitable principles in trade, and by the adoption and enforcement of sufficient and proper laws, rules and regulations establish conformity in commercial usages by its members; to adjust differences or disputes of a business or commercial character arising between its members; to arbitrate and settle controversies or disputes existing between employers and employees regarding labor and conditions; to establish bureaus of information; to secure proper recognition and co-operation from the architectural and engineering branches of the industry and from the various civil law making bodies, to the end that standard forms may be devised, adopted and legally enforced. To make the field of activity of the fly by night contractors and dealers a rather hazardous undertaking and to deal severely with those found guilty of dishonest and unfair business practices. To equip and maintain suitable rooms for the daily meetings of its members, for transaction of its general business, and to establish and maintain a credit bureau and a free employment bureau."

Out for New Record
"Glendale has made a flying start toward a new record building year, and this is not only the case with building operations, but with pavement contracts as well. Every Glendelian is interested in this activity, and rightly so. No city can grow as has Glendale without these vital factors entering into its life, nor without the hearty co-operation of the entire community."

"Despite the infancy of the Builders' Exchange of Glendale, the men behind it are men of ripe experience, and much can be expected of its activity for the future."

"The public places untold faith with the men who comprise our membership. If our work is not honest, then more than most industries we undermine the public conscience. We must be faithful and efficient with those things which are entrusted to us; then the charges of incompetence, fraud and treason cannot be laid upon the members of our rank. The business ability, standing and integrity of the members of the Builders' Exchange will bear every investigation, no one can become a member without a record justifying his admission in accordance with the high standards set for membership."

"This is why the broad services rendered by the Exchange is as advantageous to every citizen, home owner or not, and upon these fundamentals we have begun to develop, and upon them our structure will grow apace."

BLESS CROSS ON
MT. M'GROARTYPhilosopher-Playwright Is Honored by Friends on Easter Morning

The first Easter services on the newly named Mt. McGroarty were held Sunday at the break of day as the first rays of light appeared on the cross erected on the summit. Jupiter Pluvius exercised the right allowed on April 1 and perpetrated a little joke in the way of a shower or two in the early morning hours, but very considerably withdrew before daylight and allowed the sun to break through. The services were well attended and a large congregation witnessed the christening of the Verdugo hilltop in honor of John Steven McGroarty, poet, philosopher and playwright, who makes his home on the sunny slope.

Flood lights illuminated the cross all night Saturday and made the beacon conspicuously visible for many miles. Long before daylight the automobiles began to arrive. Guides were stationed along the highway and Boy Scouts were on duty along the hill road with lights. Automobiles were provided for Tujunga and Sunland people who had no cars.

Trumpets Greet Dawn

Buglers were stationed along the hilltops and ushered in the day by sounding the morning salute as the first rays of dawn appeared over the Sierra Madre to the east. Before the band of pioneer pilgrims who made the first Easter journey to the Cross of San Ysidro, patron of little homes, Father Tullio of the Catholic chapel blessed the cross. This first of annual services to be held there was simple, yet impressive. An octet from the Mission Play sang an Easter anthem, by Gounod, "Open, Ye Portals of the Kingdom of God." The Tujunga Community church gave a scripture reading, followed by a hymn sung by the Community church choir. The congregated pilgrims then joined in singing "Rock of Ages" and Rev. Smith of the Sunland Baptist church spoke the benediction.

Into the masonry of the cross has been built a bronze tablet bearing this inscription:

Tribute to McGroarty
Immediately following these services M. V. Hartranft made the dedication speech on behalf of the Millionaires of Happiness and Contentment, naming the peak Mt. McGroarty and voicing the sentiment that actuated this club in thus honoring their famous neighbor. To the world he is John Steven McGroarty, author and playwright, but to Tujungans he is John, neighbor and friend. He has made the Millionaires of Happiness and Contentment known to a large reading public through his writings. Most of his famous characters, who are not merely children of his brain, but real, live people, were present to participate in the ceremonies. Their creed is to honor the deity serving while he still lives to enjoy the tribute and it was for this reason that they named the hilltop above his home in his honor. Their club rooms are the post office steps and it was at a recent meeting that the idea of naming the Verdugo peak had its inception.

From the point where the city stands may be seen the "cross" of San Fernando and the surrounding valley. To the south are the rolling hills of the Talamantes and another range of the Verdugos. Nowhere in Southern California is there a more beautiful early morning drive than through the Verdugo Canyon up into the green hills beyond. An excellent paved highway, with views of constantly changing beauty, makes the journey well worth while. The final mile of road that winds through Oak Glen and up to the sky line drive is an inspiration in itself and the view that spreads out at the pilgrim's feet is a fitting reward for his early rising.

Churches Are Filled
Every church in the Verdugo Hills district had a record attendance for Easter services. Congregations have greatly increased in the past few months and every house of worship was well filled for the special services and musical programs that had been prepared.

The Tujunga Community church began with a special program by the intermediate department of the Sunday school at 9:45 called "An Easter Pilgrimage." The primary class sang Easter songs. This was followed by the communion service and a sermon by Dr. J. U. Stotts at the regular morning hour. The Community choir gave a musical in the evening and Rev. Glenn Moore preached the evening sermon.

The Episcopal church began the observance of the Easter season with Good Friday services at 8 o'clock Friday afternoon. The holy communion was celebrated Sunday morning at 10:45. At the Sunland Baptist church the Sunday school presented an Easter cantata at the morning service and Rev. Smith preached the Easter sermon. Special music was given in the evening at the 7:30 service.

On Wednesday and Thursday, April 25 and 26, Mrs. Fischer will present "Clarence" at the Central Avenue school as another Community Players' feature.

Offer Sacred Cantata
A sacred cantata was given at 8 o'clock Saturday night, March 31, at the larger tabernacle on West Myrtle avenue, by the large choir of the Seventh Day Adventist church of Glendale, thirty voices participating.

It was a splendid affair and drew a large audience. The title of the cantata was "The Everlasting Night," by Ira B. Wilson.

The principals in the event were Clarence H. Jones, director; Mrs. Belle Johnson, pianist; Mrs. C. E. Swartzgard, organist; Mrs. Nellie Ochs, soprano; Mrs. B. K. Nelson, contralto; Arthur Billington, tenor; James Moore, baritone.

Among the many fine numbers given were a baritone solo, by Mr. Moore, "Behold, a King Shall Reign in Righteousness," a soprano solo by Mrs. Ochs, "Bethlehem," and a splendid chorus, "Thy Light is Come!"

Banquet and Program
On Thursday night the Eastern Star lodge of Eagle Rock entertained with a banquet and program in honor of its past matrons and patrons, the lodge rooms being beautifully decorated in white and gold. Covers were laid for 135, and a delightful repast was served followed by a musical program and speeches.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Vandergrift of Los Angeles, have moved to 142 South Royal drive.

Mrs. M. Lucas, of 153 North Highland avenue, has bought a chicken ranch near Arcadia, and will move there within the next few days.

The Westminster guild of the Presbyterian church has elected the following officers for the coming year: Miss Laura Donnell, president; Mrs. M. Misch, vice-president; Miss Bertha Buck, treasurer, and Miss Mildred Bennett, secretary, with Mrs. W. O. Johnson and Mrs. F. H. Pargellis as patronesses.

Held Easter Services
The spirit of Easter and its deep, thoughtful meaning produced beautiful and impressive services in Eagle Rock churches. At the Congregational, Rev. E. Morgan Isaac spoke on "The Undimmed Light," and a class of new members were received.

At the Episcopal, Rev. Ruggles gave the morning address, on "The Resurrection of Christ," and several children were baptized, who a number of new members were received.

At the Church of Christ, Rev. W. J. Carry took as his morning subject "The Resurrection of Christ," while in the evening he spoke on "The Spirit of the Bible."

At the Seventh Day Adventist, Rev. C. S. Prout preached Saturday morning on the Resurrection theme.

At the First Church of Christ, Scientist, the morning subject was "Reality."

At the Catholic, masses were held at 10 o'clock in the morning, with Sunday school at 9 o'clock.
